A WORD TO THE WISE FROM THE LIBRARY

The Shelton State Library is celebrating National Library Week during April and is joining the American Library Association in offering the slogan "A Word to the Wise--Library."

Our library, as with others across the country, can help with every aspect of our daily lives. In business, the library is the best place to find everything from up-to-the-minute stock market quotations to a new bookkeeping system procedure. For home life, we can find classes and information about health and fitness, hobbies, home repairs, child care and more. Non-readers can learn to read, and avid readers can get their fill of mysteries, science fiction, etc.

Today's libraries provide books, periodicals, newspapers, tapes, records, computers and more, at less than the cost to you of a book on a subscription to a magazine. That's what we call a bargain. Head toward a library! They have all the inside information you need.

FACULTY FAVORITE QUOTES

Don't miss the favorite quotes from faculty and staff that will be on display on the bulletin board during Library Week. Free "Annie" bookmarks will be given out in the library. Stop by and pick one up!

Happy National Library Week!

Note: The library will be closed Friday, April 23, from noon until 5 p.m.
